The driver was killed and his three passengers seriously injured. The train shown here was the one that figured in the accident. Two of the switch mechanisms demolished by the rolling auto are shown lying in the snow. The signal light shown in the background was about the point to where the auto was carried. The car was rolled 640 feet east of the point of impact, according to measurements taken by Frankfort Police Chief Francis Simon. (Semmler Press photos)

Frankfort Rail Crossing Crash Kills 1, Injures 3

One man is dead and three seriously injured as a result of a train-auto collision on the Center road crossing of the E.J. & E. railway at Frankfort last Thursday afternoon.

The victims, all Chicagoans, were employees of the Standard Industrial Compound Co., which is on Center road bordering the railroad tracks.

They left the company parking lot, which is about 200 feet from crossing and reached the tracks just in time to be hit broadside by the locomotive. The car was pushed and rolled ahead of the train for 640 feet (the distance was later measured by Frankfort Police Chief Francis Simon) before finally being thrust clear of the rails.

It required two wreckers to stretch the battered hulk of the automobile sufficiently to allow rescuers to bring the passengers out. It was about an hour before the men could be removed from the wreck.

All were taken to Silver Cross hospital where the driver, Thomas Smith, 58, of 2942 W. Roosevelt, was pronounced dead on arrival. The other three, all with serious injuries, are, David Thorp, 44, of 1532 W. Lake; Lealon Rucker, 44, of 1509 S. Christiana ave., and Lawrence Prudhome, 40, of 1556 S. Kedzie.

The tragedy occurred about 3:15. A Frankfort man, Lawrence Hobson, who also works at Standard Compound plant, left the parking lot just ahead of Smith. Hobson told Chief Simon that the crossing gates were not down nor were the flasher signals working. According to the chief, Hobson said he was on the tracks before he realized a train was there. At that time he estimated the train was about 500 feet west of the crossing. It was then, Hobson was quoted as saying that he heard the engine's whistle.

Simon said he talked with a woman who told him she saw the train hit the car. At the time the car reached the crossing, this witness was quoted as saying the southeast gate was up. She said that because the crossing was occupied she couldn't see if the southwest gate was down.

tracks made by Smith's car were straight ahead, indicating the gate was not lowered. Had Smith run around the gate, Simon pointed out, the car's tracks would have shown such a maneuver.

Simon said that the engineer, Russel Magee, of Joliet, stated that the train was traveling 35 to 40 miles an hour when the

Hunt Source Of Spurious $5 Bills Passed In Area

The appearance of two counterfeit $5-bills at Orland Park the past week and the report that several of the bills were passed at Markham has caused police and treasury agents to ask cooperation by the public in getting at the source of the supply.

On Jan. 14 a woman passed such a bill at the IGA Food-liner at Orland. The cashier was dubious about accepting the bill but the customer insisted that it was good money and demanded to see the manager. After some discussion the store accepted the bill only to have it declared spurious when it was deposited at the bank.

The woman who passed it was described as about 5 feet, 5 inches in height, of medium build, had reddish hair and was accompanied by a boy about 10 years old.

She had been seen at the store previously but not since the bill was passed, according to Police Commissioner Frank Guetter who was asked by treasury agents to make an investigation. Guetter said that if the woman who tendered the bill came by it innocently they would appreciate it if she would come to see him and tell where she got the bill.

Another woman in Orland Park also tendered a spurious bill but when it was pointed out that it was counterfeit she said she was unaware of it and had received the money in change at the National Tea Co. store in Markham and that if Guetter would come with her she would point out the cashier.

The cashier remembered the woman being in the store but said she was so busy she couldn't remember the change she had given her. The store manager gave the woman a good bill and the counterfeit was turned over to Guetter.

The police commissioner accident occurred.

Railroadmen were astonished that none of the 80 cars in the train were derailed in view of the fact that the battered auto that was being rolled and pushed along the track struck a mechanism that threw a switch that shunted the east bound freight onto another set of rails.

Rescuers were hampered by the cold and the fact that because of the snow it was quite difficult to reach the car.

said he learned that three more counterfeit fives were passed at Markham in the past week or so.

Warning that counterfeit fives and tens were being passed was given community police by treasury agents before Christmas but it was reported that only recently have any of the fives shown up in this area.

The picture of Lincoln on the bogus bill lacks details and it appears that he has black eyes. The steps of the building pictured on the back of the bill is also lacking in detail, Guetter said. The same errors are noted on the bogus tens, he was told.

Exonerates Suspect

Wendell M. Green, 27, of Bensenville, picked up by state police near Mokena last Friday morning when they found him asleep in his car off U.S. 45, north of U. S. 30, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace Anthony Mackay in Joliet last Monday afternoon on a charge of disorderly conduct and released.

The burglary charge placed against him in connection with a break-in at Cook's restaurant, Wolf road, Mokena, last Thursday night was dismissed after Green passed a lie box test Monday.

Green denied that he had been at the restaurant or knew anything about it. Sheriff's deputies who investigated found footprints outside the restaurant that had been made with a distinctive shoe. Green's shoes did not have that kind of soles, the report stated.

It was reported Monday that he passed the lie test 100%

Supreme Court Rules JPs Can Collect Taxes

Justices of the peace do have jurisdiction in suits aimed at collecting delinquent personal property taxes. That was the decision of the Illinois supreme court announced last Friday.

As a matter of fact the case was decided several weeks ago, one of the justices stated when principals in the original suit that started in Will county, appeared before the tribunal on Wednesday of last week.

The court dealt with the appeal coming from Cook county rather than Will county but pointed out that the decision applied to both.

The question was originally raised about two years ago when Justices of the Peace George Sangmeister, of Mokena and Frankfort, and Robert Buchar, of Joliet, both attorneys and Democrats, declined to try any tax suits brought by State's Attorney Frank H. Masters, on the grounds that they had no jurisdiction. Circuit Judge Victor N. Cardosi, of Kankakee, held that the JPs could try the suits. Sangmeister and Buchar appealed and the second district appellate court at Ottawa held for them. The three judges were unanimous in finding that only the county court had jurisdiction in delinquent tax cases.

This was a bomb as far as tax collections were concerned involving every county in the state. Illinois Attorney William G. Clark as a friend of the court carried the case to the state supreme court.

Meanwhile in Cook county a test case was made involving Justice of the Peace Leland Rayson, of Tinley Park, also an attorney and a Democrat. State's Attorney Daniel Ward filed 25 cases of delinquent personal property tax cases with Rayson and the latter declined to hear them, claiming lack of jurisdiction. The circuit court of Cook county ordered Rayson to hear the cases and the appellate court of the first district sustained the lower court and Rayson appealed to the state supreme court.

When Sangmeister, Buchar and Attorney General Clark appeared in the supreme court last week they were told that the case had been decided on the record from Cook county.

Attorney Anton Mutz, of Joliet, representing Sangmeister and Buchar, says a rehearing will be sought. Such action, it was pointed out, would serve as a stay on hearing delinquent personal property tax cases.

It has been brought out that if tax cases are tried by JPs and judgments given it would be necessary for the state's attorney's office to follow up such cases and get an execution to satisfy such judgments. It was pointed out that if such a judgment was obtained in the county court it would be a lien on the real estate that would have to be paid off if the property was sold.

It was also pointed out, however, that some people are laboring under a misconception if the belief that a JP court judgment on personal property could not be executed if there was a chattel mortgage on the property. Attorneys questioned on the subject said if the debtor has sufficient equity in the property to meet the cost of the judgment--and this would be true in most cases since the purchaser must pay a substantial amount down, as in automobiles for instance--the property could be sold for the amount of the taxes due plus costs.

If the supreme court denies the petition for rehearing--and a guess would be that it would--then this spring should see JP courts laboring with dockets filled with delinquent tax cases, observers stated.

School Mergers Hold Center Of Public Interest In Area

If the present trend continues the New Lenox school district will be one of the largest in area in the county.

Last week the Will county board of school trustees voted unanimously (7 to 0) to annex Schmuhl school district, No. 121, to the New Lenox school district, No. 122. Last year the Cherry Hill school district was added to the New Lenox district and a few years ago the Lynk district became a part of Dist. 122.

At the time the Lynk district was annexed the New Lenox board suggested that the Marley district join too but the Marley people decided to operate their own school. Now, however, there are two petitions on file in the office of County Supt. Verne E. Crackel, who by virtue of such is secretary of the county board of school trustees.

One petition would annex that portion of Sections 1 and 2 in New Lenox township southeast of the center line of the Wabash railroad right-of-way and southeast of the center line of the proposed FAI-80 expressway to the Mokena grade school district and the remainder of the Marley district to the New Lenox grade school district.

Hearing on these two petitions has been set by the trustees for 7:30 o'clock the night of Feb. 19, in the supervisor's chamber in the courthouse at Joliet.

Indications were that two petitions would be filed soon affecting the Weitendorf district No. 154. One petition would annex that portion of the district north of U. S. 30 to the Mokena district (most of it where there are children has already been so annexed) and the other would ask for annexation of the south portion to the Frankfort grade school district.

At the hearing last week on the Schmuhl school case it was brought out that the annexation plus the natural growth of enrollment in the remainder of the district would bring the total up between 1,100 and 1,200. There are around a thousand in the New Lenox school now, it was said.

Evans Drotts, president of the New Lenox grade school board opposed the annexation at this time on the grounds that it would create problems that the board would prefer not to cope with at this time but admitted that such problems were not too unsurmountable. A couple of additional teachers, or more, will be necessary, he said.

Ronald Chrisman, one of the three directors of Schmuhl school, and Lewis Radd presented the case for the petitioners to the trustees. Objectors to the change included the other two school directors, Robert Brown, president, and William Hocker, secretary. They were accompanied by Franklin Klein, a member of the Chicago law firm that represents numerous school districts in the southwest suburbs. Mr. Klein brought out the objections in a question and answer process conducted with Brown giving the answers.

Brown and Hocker contend the district was financially capable of taking care of itself and the children would be better off to have their own school rather than being thrown into another district.

One of the trustees, Attorney Paul Thurlow, asked why it was two-thirds of the Schmuhl directors were opposed to a change advocated by 78% of the legal voters (255 of the 324 legal voters signed the petition for annexation. The question went unanswered.

Those favoring the annexation explained that they believed the children would have better educational advantages at New Lenox. The trustees apparently felt it would be more advantageous to the children if the change were made as that is one of the prime factors they consider, because there were no dissenting votes. All seven of the trustees were for the change.

It was pointed out that New Lenox should have sufficient classrooms to meet its needs next year. The new Cherry Hill school with a potential of six class rooms is practically completed and Schmuhl school has four rooms that could be used for young pupils from the Lincolnwood area.

New Lenox has kindergarten and such eligible youngsters in the Schmuhl and Cherry Hill areas could attend classes in their respective districts, along with pupils, say, thru fourth grade, it was pointed out.

The tax rate for 1961 used in the payment of taxbills in 1962 (the 1962 rates used in figuring the bills payable this year are not yet available) shows that in Dist. 122 it was $1.125 per $100 of equalized assessed valuation; $1.417 in the Schmuhl district; $1.538 in the Marley district; No. 125; $1.232 in the Mokena district, No. 159; $1.17 in the Frankfort district, No. 157-C and 67 cents and two mills in Weitendorf district, No. 154.

When one district is annexed by another the annexing district assumes all of the liabilities of the district annexed, at the same time getting all of its assets. Assets include the buildings, the cash on hand at the close of the fiscal school year, the unpaid state aid due the annexed district, and in the case of Schmuhl, the taxes levied last September and are payable this year.

Schmuhl district had $33,000 in bonds outstanding June 30, 1962, and New Lenox district, $466,000. Last year the bond rate of New Lenox district was 30 cents per $100 equalized valuation and in Schmuhl district the rate was 24 cents.

According to the county superintendent's office the combined bond and interest rate for the enlarged district is expected to be about 25 cents.

Four File For Village Board

Four candidates have filed petitions for the three places to be filled on the Frankfort village board in April and another man has taken out nominating papers.

Two of those filed are men whose terms on the board expire this spring and are candidates for re-election, John Topp and Clyde Reils. Both are running on their records and their experience and service.

Wayne DePorto, whose term also expires, has taken out nominating petitions.

The other two candidates filed are Robert Dean, who operates the Frankfort pharmacy, and Theodore Brueschel, who has a print shop in Frankfort.

Last day for filing is Feb. 25; last day for withdrawals is March 2. Election day is April 16.

Firemen Ask Public To Clear Hydrants Of Snow

The volunteer firemen in all the area towns, New Lenox, Frankfort, Mokena and Orland Park are asking householders for assistance that will be beneficial to them as well as to the departments.

They are asking the public to give them a hand in clearing the snow away from hydrants. Some hydrants have been drifted over and some have been covered in the process of plowing streets or in digging paths or shoveling off sidewalks.

If firemen have to hunt for a hydrant and then clear the snow away, they pointed out, the time consumed might make the difference in saving or losing a building that is on fire. The same appeal is addressed to persons living in subdivisions. Most subdivisions in the area are of recent vintage and planned under ordinances that require a central water supply and fire hydrants.

This problem of keeping fire hydrants free of snow so they are readily visible is not restricted to the suburbs. News items show it is general throughout the snow belt, in large cities as well as villages and officials are asking the public to give a hand in correcting the situation.

They point out that it is a public service that is a real public benefit.

Food Poisoning Or Virus? Lincoln Way Seeks Answer

Food poisoning or a virus infection?

Lincoln-Way high school officials are still waiting for a report from Will county health authorities to ascertain the cause of a flurry of sickness last week that affected approximately 200 students and a number of teachers.

On Wednesday morning 70 students -- above the normal run of absences -- did not appear for classes. A check at their homes revealed that all were suffering from nausea and an intestinal disorder.

In the course of the day 75 who had come to school became so ill that they were taken home, according to Supt. A. Hunter Chapman. Some 50 more youngsters reported not feeling well but elected to remain at school.

Last Thursday saw most of the students back in classes. One boy, however, Rodney Putnam, of Frankfort, was in St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, for several days. According to the report made to the school his illness had been diagnosed as food poisoning.

"Medical people inform us that it was not ptomaine poisoning," Supt. Chapman said, "but said it could be a form of food poisoning or it could have been a virus infection that got in the food or was just going around."

The school cafeteria had received some frozen turkeys from a federal agency dealing with food surpluses. The turkeys were served at noon on Tuesday (Jan. 29).

Samples of the meal were taken by the county health department and sent into the state laboratory for examination. As Tuesday morning this week no report had come back to the school as to the laboratory's findings.

According to Supt. Chapman he ate some of the turkey and there were many more who ate it and were not ill. One teacher who became ill on Wednesday, with the same symptoms displayed by the stricken students and he had not eaten any of the turkey.

THE LINCOLN-WAY SOPHOMORE GIRLS CHORUS will present a benefit concert on Thursday, Feb. 14 at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

A variety of selections has been planned for the program, which will include a piano solo by Michael Cullen and what is to be considered an outstanding display of talent in a violin solo by a faculty member, Mr. Tripp.

The boys quartet from the mixed chorus will sing and will be followed by soloist, Nancy Ervin.

The sophomore inner chorus, made up of eleven members, will sing "Green Sleeves" and other selections.

The program will be ended with selections from Broadway Musicals. Among these is, "America" which comes from the musical, "West Side Story."

Tickets are available from any freshman or sophomore chorus member and will also be on sale at the door.

New Lenox, Continental Banks Purchase L W Bonds

The New Lenox State Bank and Continental Illinois was the successful combination in the bidding on the Lincoln-Way high school building bond issue of $750,000.

Under the terms they offered the district will pay an interest rate of 3.019836, the lowest rate Lincoln-Way has ever had. This is a lower rate than the Thornton district and the Valley View school district will pay and their lettings were about the same time as Lincoln-Ways.

The bonds, in $1,000 denominations, will mature in 20 years. The bonds are being printed and after they are signed will be available to investors. The money should come to the school district about mid-February.

The sehoo board plans to invest the money, probably in short term government notes, so it will be earning interest until it is needed.

There were 19 firms forming six combinations that submitted sealed bids.

The interest rates submitted by the other bidders were:

A.C. Allyn Co - 3.03,
Barcus-Kindred & Co. - 3.0413
Mullney-Wells & Co. - 3.05972

Morris & Co. - 3.10
John Nuveen & Co. - 3.1194.
The architects are pushing work on the plans and as soon as they are completed bids will be sought on construction.

Lincoln-Way high school is overcrowded and the bonds sold will finance the building of an addition.

New Police School Opens February 14

A new school of instruction for prospective police officers at Orland Park is to open at the village hall the evening of Feb. 14 with Police Commissioner Frank Guetter in charge.

The village is seeking to establish an eligibility list for police patrolmen and this school is the means of doing it, it was explained.

The school is to run for seven weeks. Classes will be held weekly at the village hall from 7 to 10 p.m. All persons interested in police work are invited.

Men who would serve on the Orland Park police force must be residents of the village, citizens, and of course, persons of good character.

Police Commissioner Guetter, who has his own private inquiry agency in Chicago is a graduate of the FBI police training school and has taken courses in criminal law.

ARGONNE ACHIEVEMENT--Argonne National Laboratory chemists succeeded in 1962 in making the first true compound of a so-called "inert" gas and one other element. It is xenon tetrafluoride. Their discovery opens up a new field of chemistry research and may introduce a new family of compounds. In this photo, Stanley Siegel, senior physicist at Argonne, is studying the structure and properties of xenon tetrafluoride molecules. He is preparing to conduct an X-ray diffraction study of crystals of this compound. The crystals are in a glass capillary tube (resembling a needle) mounted on the apparatus. (Argonne Lab Photo)

Discuss Extension Of Auxiliary Police Program

The Will County Auxiliary Police met on Jan. 27 at the Dwight Nicholson home in Lincoln Estates.

Special guests at the meeting were Chief Deputy, Frank Skul and Deputy John Shelley of the Will County police department and Lt. Fred Breen of the Joliet police department. (He also organized the Joliet Auxiliary Police.) Because of a meeting of the Illinois Sheriff's Association at Peoria, Sheriff Joseph Trizna was unable to attend the meeting.

The guests took part in a discussion on forming auxiliary police units in all unincorporated areas where there is no immediate available police protection. The purpose of the auxiliary police, it was explained would be to handle police matters until assistance arrives from the Sheriff's office.

Elmer Machgraf, of the Illinois Association of Auxiliary Police gave a report on the state association and also explained the insurance benefits offered anyone who takes an active part in the auxiliary police.

Anthony Summa, a deputy from Arbury Hills, brought members of the Homeowners Association of West Chester, Charles Lancaster, J. Weinberg and Robert Vvoda, to the meeting. They have taken an interest in the auxiliary police as the community in which they live is undergoing rapid expansion and consequently they are seeking some means of police protection within their area.

Anthony Dina, Mokena CD director, was also at the meeting to discuss the possibility of organizing all local CD units in Frankfort township into one unit. No definite plans for such a move were discussed at this meeting.

The members of the auxiliary police are planning a banquet for the members and their wives, which will be held in the near future.

Ogilvie For Creation Of State Crime Commission

(CNS) Support for creation of a Crime Commission in Illinois was expressed today by Cook County Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie in a letter to State Senator Robert R. Canfield.

The Rockford legislator has introduced Senate Bill No. 10 in the Springfield legislature which provides for a state crime commission.

Sheriff Ogilvie offered to testify, along with his staff, on behalf of the bill.

"The record furnishes ample proof that investigation by a Commission of this type can be most effective," said Ogilvie. "Hearings, properly conducted, can play a most important part in educating both the public and the members of the General Assembly as to the need for improvement in the tools available to those who must fight the people's battle against the crime syndicate and its allies. "All of us in the field of law enforcement are aware of the menace posed by the increasing power wielded by the leaders of the so-called 'crime syndicate.' There can be no question but that additional legislation to combat this element can be best formulated on the basis of the type of investigation which can be directed by a crime commission such as you propose."

Power Firm Saves Millions Buying 10-year Coal Supply

Commonwealth Edison Company has contracted for a ten-year coal supply to its Joliet generating station which will result in a fuel-cost saving to its customers of more than $4,000,000 a year, J. Harris Ward, chairman and president of the utility, announced today.

Under our fuel adjustment clause," Mr. Ward said, "the full saving realized will be passed on to our customers through reduced charges. With the $1,000,000 a year saving we expect from our recently announced fuel program for our State Line Station, this will bring to more than $5,000,000 the saving to customers after the new arrangements are in full operation."

Plans Ordinance To Aid Snow Removal On Streets

A group of Frankfort business people appeared before the village board at its regular meeting Monday night to urge the plowing of snow covered streets. Monday night the village accomplished considerable in this field plowing residential as well as the business thoroughfares.

But the business people had the appointment and kept it. They were glad to have the streets plowed but there was some complaint that they were not plowed soon enough and there were some complaints that the streets had been salted earlier and now were getting rather slushy.

Told by the village trustees that plowing streets was difficult because so many cars are parked on them day and nights, sometimes for days and weeks without being moved, the callers conceded the village had its problems.

The Village trustees also pointed out that plowing snow cost money and to have the streets scraped and the snow trucked away would cost more money than the village had to spend.

The business people wanted to know what the village was doing with the sales tax. They seemed to have the feeling that since the sales tax came from the business they did the business section should be considered first in cleaning the streets of snow. Board members pointed out that the householders were entitled to their share of such service, adding that if they couldn't get out to get to the business places there would be a slump in the sales tax.

Orland Park

The music club for the piano students of Mrs. Eugene Paschall met on Jan. 30 in the Ashley Wright home in Orland Park.

Winners in the musical game were David Soul, Nona Wright, Karen Doubek, and Vicki Graham.

Bruce Cooper was awarded a tie clasp for having played a specified number of solos at the Music club.

The following played piano solos: Doborah Kanost, Mark Woodstrup, Marne and Susan Buckley, Nona Wright, Bruce Cooper, Joyce Paschall, Michael Pihl, Peter Grenier, David Soul and Vicki Graham. Joyce Paschall and Mrs. Paschall played a duet, Karen Doubek played a selection from Sonata #2 by Beethoven, which was preceded by a discussion of the sonata.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wright.

Guests attending the meeting were William Graham, Mrs. James Grenies, Mrs. Richard Pihl, Mrs. George Buckley, Mrs. Emil Doubek, Mrs. Gene Kanast and Doreen, Mrs. Merrill Cooper, A. T. Wright and Muriel Ballou.

Village board members suggested that some of the business people would be doing the community and the public and the village authorities a service if they would clear their sidewalks of ice and snow.

The response to this from one of the delegation was that if the streets were kept properly cleaned the people could walk there and not need the sidewalks.

Village Attorney A.H. Krusemark was instructed to draft an ordinance providing for police action against car owners who fail to vacate the streets so that snow can be removed. Under the ordinance cars blocking the passage of snow plows would be towed away at the owners expense and there would be a fine too. Mayor George Sangmeister said the state plow had difficulty working on Nebraska street because of parking. People were complaining Monday, Simon reported, because he insisted upon them moving their cars so the streets could be cleared of snow.

Village Clerk Walter Pfaff said that the sales tax goes into the general fund and the expenses taken out of the general fund for operating the village in January was $3,477, which is about three times what the village collects in a month from sales tax. Street lights, for example cost the village $447 a month and the garbage collection is approximately $400.

A 4-inch watermain on Oregon street broke last Saturday but was not reported immediately. Village repair crews repaired the break quickly.

The village received a letter from the state sanitary water board complaining that the monthly reports it requires be made on the operation of sewage disposal plants had not been made for Frankfort. A check revealed that the forms on which such reports are made were not received at Frankfort until around Jan. 19 and that one had been filled out and returned.

New Phone Books For Area To Be In Mail Next Week

It's not on the best-seller list but more than 8,250 persons living in Frankfort, Mokena and New Lenox will receive a new book in the mail next week.

It's the latest issue of the telephone directory and there have been several significant changes in it, according to Don Memler, Illinois Bell manager.

For the first time, residents of Mokena will have a book of their own. The Mokena directory will contain yellow pages listing business telephone numbers in Frankfort, Manhattan Mokena and New Lenox.

Mokena residents should not use their new directories until February 17, Memler said. At 1 a.m. on that Sunday, direct distance dialing, seven-figure telephone numbers, the method used to dial nearby communities, and a change in area code will go into effect. The new Mokena directory will contain all of this up-to-date information.

A directory for Frankfort, Manhattan and New Lenox will incorporate similar changes.

Frankfort and New Lenox area residents will encounter some differences in dialing nearby communities. Direct distance dialing and seven-figure telephone numbers will go into effect for these two communities on Feb. 17.

Memler advised customers in Frankfort, Mokena and New Lenox to read the information pages at the front of the new directories. The information pages describe the changes that have been made.

The cover of the new directories will be similar in design to the previous issue, but will include a more detailed map.

If for any reason a telephone customer has not received the new directory by February 15, he should call the telephone company business office, Memler said.

Memler cautioned everyone to be sure to check their old directories before throwing them away. "Telephone books," he said, "have a way of accumulating everything from baby photos to stock certificates between their pages."

Dist. Re-elects Two Directors

Cooperation between urban business people and farmers is necessary if both are to prosper and serve their communities as they should, was the gist of the talk given by Paul Johnson, Prairie Farmer editor, before the annual meeting of the Will-South Cook Soil and Water Conservation District, Jan. 31.

The meeting was held in the form of a dinner in the 4-H Exhibition hall at Francis field. The affair was co-sponsored by the New Lenox Lions club. Two hundred and 10 persons attended the dinner. Ronald Vrondasek, president of the New Lenox Lions, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the various guests, including Mayor Stanley Gilmore of New Lenox. The Knights of Song, made up of 20 members of the choral groups at Lincoln-Way high school, sang several selections. They were directed by Tom Olson, head of the school's vocal music department.

Loren Sass, who resides in the Marley area, is president of the soil conservation group. At the meeting last week the two directors whose terms expired, Richard McHugh, of Manhattan, and Robert Norman, of Peotone, were re-elected.

January Chilly Month 16 Days Had Sub Zero Temps

The temperature fell to zero or below on 16 of the 31 days of January in Frankfort, according to Channel 7 climatological observer John Gradwell.

The maximum-minimum thermometer located at 509 Hawthorne st., Frankfort, registers only to 20 below zero. On the morning of Jan. 28 the mercury was as low as it could go, 20 below zero. Residents in the area reported readings of 22 and 23 below zero that date.

The highest temperature recorded during the month was 50 degrees on Jan. 9. After Jan. 11 the temperature failed to reach 32 degrees during the month.

An accurate snowfall measurement was difficult to get because of extensive drifting of the light, fluffy snow, the observer reported.

Ill. Bell Will Telecast Prep Cage Finals Again

The new assembly hall at the University of Illinois will be the site of the 1963 state high school basketball tournament, Albert Willis, executive secretary of the Illinois High School Association, announced today.

Dates for this year's tourney are Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23.

Sports fans throughout most of Illinois will once again see the games on television, sponsored by Illinois Bell Telephone Company, Willis said. Illinois Bell originated the telecast in 1952 in cooperation with the IHSA and has sponsored it every year since. An estimated 2 1/2 million viewers will see this year's tournament on a 13-station network. Sports-casters Tom Kelly and Bob Rhodes will be joined this year by Lorne Brown, sports director of TV station WICS in Springfield. (Jack Drees is not available for the 1963 telecast because of national TV commitments.)

Defending state champion is Decatur, which edged Carver of Chicago, 49-48, in last year's game.

The Saturday telecast of the semi-finals will begin at noon and the evening program—third place and championship games—will begin at 7 p.m. Channel 7 is the Chicago Outlet.

Branch Banking Another Name For Monopoly

A movement for branch banking in Illinois, fathered by the two largest banks in Chicago, undoubtedly will take form in the introduction of a bill to provide for same in the current session of the Illinois general assembly.

Under the constitution any changes in the state Banking Act must be approved by both houses of the legislature and the governor, and finally by the people in a referendum conducted in conjunction with a general election.

It is with intent that such a procedure is set up. Banking law is quite technical and complex and difficult for laymen to understand without study. Under the law the members of the assembly and the governor have the responsibility to study and evaluate legislation pertaining to banking and determine whether it should be adopted and submitted to the public for final decision.

Proponents of branch banking are urging that a law providing for such a system be rushed thru, regardless of the thoughts and convictions of the legislators and the governor in order that it can be submitted to a vote by the public.

Such a procedure is not warranted and not intended by the constitution. Should the legislature see fit to follow such a short-cut it would be inconsistent with responsible representative government and in direct conflict with the public interest.

Branch banking is another name for monopolistic banking. It is also cast in the same pattern so beloved by the advocates of centralized power. Bigness has become a fetish. Big government, big business, big banking -- and one might add, big headache too.

Proponents of big government are ceaselessly soft-talking. They love the people, they want to help the people. All the people have to do, they croon soothingly, is put everything in their hands. This will relieve them of all responsibility and give them security. All the people have to do is what they are told and pay taxes and the government will provide for them from the cradle to the grave.

The advocates of branch banking also talk slowly of their desire to be of service to the people. Don't be misled. If branch banking is adopted in Illinois it is quite likely that within a decade the giant Chicago banks will have taken over the bulk of the banking business in the state.

Community problems would have little meaning to branch bankers. If the going gets too rough all they have to do is pull out and move their branch to another town.

The community or unit bank must see it thru. Its capital is often furnished by the hard working business people of the area who know the need of a bank if their community is to grow and prosper. They believe in their community and its future and are prepared to work for it -- fight for it, if need be.

A poll of the member banks of the Illinois Bankers Association shows that out of 981, there are 847 who oppose branch banking and only 45 banks are in favor of it. Eighty-nine banks take no position.

When one considers that thousands of outstanding men and women -- representing business, labor, farming and all degrees of civic life serve as directors of the banks doing business in Illinois the report that less than 5% of the banks favor branch banking gives one a wide cross-section of opinion.

In opposing branch banking these men and women have affirmed their confidence in the ability of the present unit system to continue its contribution to the economic leadership of Illinois.

They oppose branch banking because they are convinced that it will lead to monopoly that would be a real danger to the public interest.

It is reported there is a large war chest available at Springfield. It is to be hoped that few legislators will be so bedazzled that they will vote against the people.

Newspapers about the state were asked about their feelings on branch banking. A substantial majority were opposed to enactment of any law which would permit branch banking -- limited or otherwise. An even larger majority declared that in their opinion branch banking would not aid the economy of the state. Nor do they believe branch banking would give the public better service than they have under the unit system of banking.

Said one editor:
"I would say branch banking is for the birds but for the fact I like birds."

years ago. The CCC was reported to be holding 25 million bushels in mid-January.

With this kind of supply situation for soybeans, prices might rise considerably. This, however, would force prices of soybean meal and oil to higher levels, or reduce processors' margins.

Soybean meal prices recently were $13.00 a ton higher than a year before, while soybean oil was 1 1/8 cents a pound lower. This made the value of products in a bushel of beans worth about 19 cents more than a year earlier, while the prices of soybeans was up 27 cents. This situation does not favor high utilization of soybeans.

It now appears that the carryover of soybeans next Oct. 1 may be only 40 to 50 million bushels, or 6 to 8 percent of the crop. There does not appear to be any possibility of using up all of the supply as we did two

New NI Gas Construction In 63 Set At 40 million

Northern Illinois Gas Company, in its quarterly report to stockholders today (February 1), said the utility expects to spend about $40 million for new construction in 1963. This amount is included in NI-Gas' $195 million five-year (1963-67) construction program.

Major part of 1963 construction costs will consist of an estimated $25 million for gas mains and gas distribution system improvements and replacements to connect new customers and provide for additional space heating business. The balance will include $8 million for underground gas storage facilities, $1 million for supply mains to deliver the gas to the local systems, and $6 million for general plant--land, buildings, office equipment, tools and transportation equipment.

NI-Gas recapped the dividends paid to stockholders during 1962 as totaling $1.49 per share, an increase of 14 cents over the amount paid in 1961. Quarterly dividend checks for 38 cents a share were included in the mailing.

The report also noted that Allied Gas Company became a subsidiary of NI-Gas on December 31, 1962, the result of an exchange of stock between NI-Gas and the Allied stockholders.

NI-Gas stockholders also were asked to supply the company with their stockholder identifying number so that dividend payments could be reported to the Internal Revenue Service as required by public law.

Couple Falls Down Stairs At Club, Sues

(CNS) - The Sabre Room, 8900 W. 95th Street, Palos township, was sued for $40,000 in superior court by two patrons who claimed they fell down the club's front stairs in June of 1961.

Robert and Florence Arnold, 4430 W. Deming, claimed the club was negligent in allowing loose pebbles and chips of concrete to accumulate on the stairway.

The suit said that Mrs. Arnold suffered a broken arm in the fall. Attorneys for the two asked $10,000 for Mr. Arnold and $30,000 for Mrs. Arnold.

On Second Thot

By GLENN F. LOGAN

This week and next may find some men in a dither over what to give their heart's delight for a valentine. The ads are full of suggestions . . . a diamond necklace . . . a diamond bracelet . . . a diamond ring a string of pearls (gift wrapped in a Cadillac) . . . a box of candy . . . flowers and many other things, some ornamental and some of utilitarian purpose.

But for the discerning man the thoughtful man, let's face it, the glib man who watches TV there is no problem.

He knows what all women want and what men want them to have, pretty hands. He knows this is true because TV commercials say so. All day long they say so, from dawn's early light to the glare of the late, late show.

And pretty hands are as close as the nearest store. All the man has to do to be in like Flynn with his heart throbs is buy a container of liquid detergent for the dishpan, and/or a pair of rubber gloves.

Now there's a valentine that is a valentine and inexpensive too. One can get the large family size of the detergent for a little over a buck and the rubber gloves are less than a buck fifty. So there you are, adding to the beauty of your heart's desire, giving her a valentine, and getting big change out of a five dollar bill. You can't do much better than that.

The practical way to beauty. The detergent or the gloves. She can throw away all those lotions, those sweetly scented unguents, those expensive skin creams. All she has to do is the dishes.

Most of you must be familiar with the scene on TV. Here's the husband stretched out in a comfortable chair, reading his paper. He has just had an excellent supper and is content and at peace with the world. At this juncture the wife comes in. She gives him a big smile and a pat on the cheek. He takes hold of her hand.

His expression changes. He looks concerned, deeply concerned.

"Why my dear," he says, "your hands, your lovely hands. . . what has happened. . . they used to be so smooth and now. . . " "I know, dear," she answers. She is a bit pensive but there is love in her look. "It's the soap. And all the lotions I have used haven't done a bit of good. But Mary Brown was in today and her hands looked so lovely, so soft, so smooth. I asked her how she did it and she told me about the wonderful detergent she uses for washing dishes -- it's 'Git' . . . you know, 'Git' will git the grease off the dishes and leave your hands baby smooth."

Well the scene shifts, indicating a lapse of time. Once more the husband is stretched out in his chair, reading the paper, and again the wife comes up and pats his cheek. Again he takes hold of her hand, smiling fondly. Now his look becomes one of sheer amazement.

"Why my dear," he says. There is surprise and amazement in his voice, as well as his look, "your hands!" They are so soft, so smooth, so lovely. She preens, laughing prettily. "They are nice, aren't they," she concedes, "and I owe it all to Git. . . Git got them this way and from now on I will always get Git."

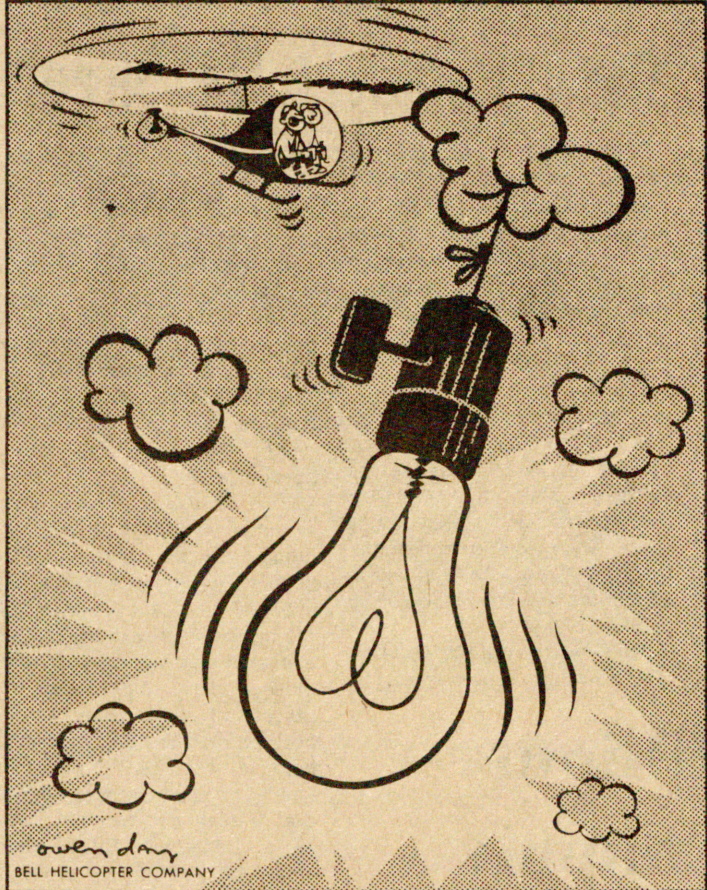

A nice tableau for a fadeout but somehow there is a serious lack of reality about the situation. Take this husband. Now he is either brave, foolhardy or a man who is stone deaf and has no battery for his hearing aid.

Can you imagine a husband with any experience asking his wife such a question as to what has happened to her hands. They were pretty once, he says and the inference is plain that now they are red, rough as a cob and with hangnails yet.

Some women might take this and make some whining defense by blaming the soap but if this guy is married to the kind of woman that appears to be in the majority he would be wise to ask the question as he opens the door on his way out.

We think she would have a lot of things to say, including a play by play of the things she has done in the past, the present, and what she is likely to have to do in the future plus what he hasn't done -- thousands of words and we doubt that any of them would have to do with soap. If the matter of cleansing agents ever got into the monologue the little woman is apt to say that as far as she is concerned, they all come out of the same vat and what isn't sold for washing dishes goes to the tanning industry, for the making of leather etc. etc. etc.

Business & Finance

BY MAURICE P. ANGLAND

Both the current issue of Fortune and that of Forbes are quite optimistic on the future course of business figures.

The Fortune survey of business, states that businessmen, many economists and the national government, do not seem to realize the strength of the national economy. The survey notes this that the budget message expresses the opinions of the government agencies.

It is noted that these analysts assume that the economy will grow less rapidly as things stand, than it has recently or during 1962.

The article points out that business news is confirming that the economy has been strong in many sectors.

This business survey expresses opinion that the next advance will be strong rather than gentle.

It is expected that there will be a surge in inventory buying. It is noted that inventories dropped about $6 billion during 1962 and are expected to regain the drop during the first six months of 1963. The magazine's inventory survey for the last quarter, shows that merchants and manufacturers expect final customer sales to increase at least 2 per cent over the last quarter. The analysis predicts that there will be a need to meet actual inventory shortages which are reported as one per cent below desired levels at the year-end.

Naturally, manufacturers and retailers desire to reduce the required ratio of inventories to production and sale since such reduction increases "turn over" and profit margins. However, miscalculation on demand or deliveries when needed, can be expensive in profit margin.

The computer is expected to aid in inventory controls all down the line of business activity.

Cars sales have been booming and this is reflected in steel demand with output has been rising. Other hard goods users of steel, are also reporting increases.

This magazine's column on business activity, has been predicting an active capital goods market. The current issue has a special survey of production potentials in our basic industries. The heading of this article anticipates that soon manufacturers may be complaining about delay in new plant and Maybe the gloves would be better. A quick move and one could gag her. The commercials say gloves give the hands thoro protection and keep them soft and smooth. Some women complain it is difficult for them to work in rubber gloves -- that they can't tell from the feel whether they are holding a shovel or a ballpoint pen.

They must use the wrong kind because in the commercials on video people wear these gloves to pick up dimes. How they work doing other chores after one has picked up all of the dimes lying around a house, isn't said.

Maybe it is just as well if the husband is not at home after the wife has finished doing her housework while wearing rubber gloves -- especially if they are the close fitting kind, which cause the hands to perspire profusely.

When the gloves are doffed the hands are soft alright, and maybe they will be smooth -- after the wrinkles disappear.

Maybe it would be better after all to buy jewelry, flowers or candy for a valentine -- or else just forget the whole thing.

Letters To The Editor

TAKES INVENTORY

Dear Sir:
Inventories are usually taken by business firms at the end of the year. So--let's take a fast look at our financial, economic and political condition as a nation.

We start '63' with a national debt of more than 302 billions. Our gold reserves are barely 15 billions, which is at least five billion less than the outstanding foreign claims. Should we be called upon, to redeem these IOU slips, maybe our silver would cover the deficit. The paper money which we have, would make beautiful wall-paper but who would like all their rooms to be decorated in green?

Industry is dragging it's feet because of the unstable policies of our government. Business is fearful of the administration and it's insatiable desire to control every phase of the economy with regulations, Presidential decrees and black-jack tactics. This bullying and badgering plus the taxation squeeze, on both business and the individual, is the cause of our unemployment problem.

When John Doe thinks of politics, he thinks usually of this, as something pertaining to an election. This is only the beginning of the true meaning, according to Webster. He says "Having or conforming to, a polity, or settled system of Administration. Of or pertaining to the organization or action of individuals, parties, or interests that seek to control the appointment or action of those who manage the affairs of a state."

In the United States, there is a "gang" of political dreamers who have been indoctrinated in the Fabian-Socialist and/or Communist philosophy. These "rainbow chasers" are in power and advocate policies which may eventually wreck our Country.

Patriotically yours,
Henry W. Hicks

Newcomers Will Present Original Play Feb. 12

The hidden talents of the Joliet area Newcomers will be brought into the spotlight when they present "The Saga of Sally Brown" at their meeting on Tuesday evening, Feb. 12, at D'Amico's 214. Mrs. Darrell Patton and Mrs. Eugene Moretti are co-producers of the talent show.

"The Saga of Sally Brown" is the brain child of Mrs. DuWayne Peterson and consists of a two act parody written by her. It is the story of the Brown family, their transfer and move to Joliet, including a house hunt. Finally, they meet new friends and become acquainted through Newcomers. Mrs. Marcus Lovett directs the pantomimed antics of a cast portraying the action narrated by Mrs. Arthur Walters, Mrs. Benjamin Jolley is a very convincing Sally Brown and Mrs. William Zook is Dick, her husband. Baby Jill, Mrs. John Swalec and Little John, Mrs. Darrell Patton complete the Brown family. The Welcome Wagon Hostess is played by Mrs. John Eaton.

The chorus, directed by Mrs. George Kabat, is responsible for the musical aspect of the skit. The Mesdames Larry Miller, Mel Campbell, Max

Henry, Ludwig Penkauskas, James Wermer, Craig Robinson, Ted Winkles, A. Raymond Ruffatti, Wayne French, Frank Finch, John Orlyk, and Eugene Morotti sing a series of "old favorite" tunes whose lyrics have been altered to the situation of "Sally Brown". "I Wonder What Became of Sally" is the solo sung by Mrs. James Wermer.

The search for a new home is wonderfully brought to mind by the dance team of Mrs. Ted Winkles and Mrs. Craig Robinson to a tune entitled, "I'm Looking Over a Sub-division." Mrs. Duane Converse designed the set and her stage crew are the Mesdames Darrell Wetzler, James Price and Clyde Dixon.

The program was compiled and reproduced by Mrs. Louis Netzel and her hostess committee. Mrs. Herman Ploeg, Mrs. Melvin Forbes, Mrs. Gerald Geiger, Mrs. Larry Bobb Mrs. Mickey Holtman and Mrs. Stuart Ramsdell.

All new arrivals to the Joliet area are invited to come and enjoy this comical parody on their own not too distant experiences. Mrs. Robert Frandsen SA 3-4936 may be called for information and reservations.

Extend SIU Summer Term To Cover Sophomore Level

Taking another step toward year-round operation, Southern Illinois university expects to extend its 1963 full-quarter summer session to embrace sophomore-level as well as freshman-level courses, according to Raymond H. Dey, director of the summer session. There are quite a number of students at SIU from this area.

The regular eight-week summer term will run from June 17 to August 9, while the 12-week term is scheduled for June 17-Aug. 30, he said, "depending upon funds becoming available for the 12-week quarter." Last summer only freshman-level courses ran 12 weeks.

Courses have been listed for summer offering by 52 departments in eight schools and colleges of the University, plus the vocational and technical institute and the department of nursing, Dey said.

In addition to the eight- and 12-week courses, some 40 short courses and workshop are scheduled for the 1963 summer session. Several of these are to be financed wholly or in part by grants from the federal or state government or research foundations. They range in subject matter from aero-space to news analysis, from cinema production to school public relations, from opera to teaching arithmetic.

Last year a total of 5,549 students were enrolled during the summer session, Dey said, including 1,407 registered for the 12-week freshman-level program. The summer session student body included 4,917 from Illinois, 515 from 44 other states and the District of Columbia, and 117 from 32 foreign countries.

Reflecting the growing status of graduate studies at Southern, Dey said graduate students last summer numbered 1,641.

Enrollment in the summer session has been climbing steadily in the last decade, Dey said, citing an increase from 1,546 in 1952 to 5,549 in 1962. The 1962 enrollment rose 387 above the 1961 figure of 5,162.

Don't Hunt Wild Pig With Air Rifle Or A Slingshot

BY DAVID H. THOMPSON
(Cook Co. Forest Preserve)

The pig is the most misunderstood and most slandered of all our domestic animals. One of our worst insults is to call a person a pig or a hog or a swine. If the pig is greedy, dirty or fat, it is because man made him that way during the seven thousand years they have lived together. Fat hogs are the result of selective breeding to produce more lard. Given an opportunity the pig, like its wild ancestor, does not overeat and prefers clean water and a clean bed to the filth of a pig sty. Among all our farm animals they are ranked most intelligent.

Many millions of years ago there were various types of pigs and pig-like animals whose bones are found fossilized in rocks today. They ranged in size from species like our little American peccary up to beasts as large as a bison. Among them are fossil swine very similar to our barnyard pig. It has undergone less change over the ages than any other domestic animal.

All pigs have much in common. The snout with its tough flexible disklike tip is the most prominent feature of all species. It is a combination steam shovel and bulldozer for digging, pushing and lifting. A pig's bristles give little protection against cold and, with no sweat glands in the skin, they suffer from heat. Most wild swine, therefore, are inhabitants of swamps and forests in warm and temperate regions. Commonly they run in herds called sounders.

The European wild boar, ancestor of the domestic hog, is the largest of the present-day wild swine -- the males or boars sometimes reaching a height of 40 inches at the shoulder and a weight of 350 pounds. He is armed with a pair of large sharp strong tusks, the upper canine teeth, which curve outward and upward, reaching a length of ten inches in old age. The female or sow bears litters of 3 to 12 striped young in a nest hidden in thick brush. Formerly the wild boar ranged through the forested parts of Europe, Asia, and north Africa. About fifty years ago fifteen of them were released in America where their descendants still survive in three of our national forests.

The wild boar has been hunted for food, for sport or to protect crops against their ravages since the days of the cave men. In the Middle Ages boar hunting with spears and dogs was a royal sport and the serving of a boar's head at the Christmas feast in Merrie England was a holdover of a much older pagan rite at the time of the winter solstice. The boar is courageous and ferocious. At bay he can hold off a whole pack of hounds with his slashing tusks or rip a horse and rider.

Our slab-sided Razorback or Woods Hog is a half-wild domesticated pig or a descendant of a once-domesticated pig which has run free, making its home in forests and swamps.

Wild pigs of several species are found on all continents except Australia, and on many of the islands of the East Indies and the South Pacific. The smallest of the lot is the ten-pound pigmy hog of the Himalayan jungles. In Borneo and Sumatra are bearded pigs with curly white whiskers. The celbes pig has tusks that grow upward thru the skin and curve backward to the forehead. Africa has a Bush pig, a Giant

Forest hog, and that ugliest of all creatures, the Wart hog. The only native member of the pig tribe in the New World is the peccary, javelina, or musk hog which ranges from our southwestern states southward thru South America. Unlike other pigs its hind feet have only three toes instead of four; also there is a gland on its back that gives off a foul-smelling secretion. It is noted for devouring rattlesnakes which it kills by jumping on them with its sharp hoofs after they have struck and missed. Madame Porker turns up her aristocratic snout at that upstart, man.

Jury Holds Mother-Son Deaths Homicide, Suicide

A coroner's jury last Friday held that the deaths of Mrs. Joan Hillock, 44, and her 17 year old son, Samuel H. Hillock, Jr. were homicide and suicide. From the evidence at the scene the boy shot his mother twice thru the head with a 22 rifle and then killed himself with a shotgun.

The mother was a teacher in the Matteson grade school and at one time also taught in the Kirby-McIntosh school. The boy was a senior at Lockport high school.

The shooting occurred Jan. 17. State police crime lab workers reported that the rifle found in the bedroom was the weapon used in the slaying of the mother. The shotgun used by the boy was lying near his body.

The husband and father, Samuel H. Hillock, Sr. was one of the witnesses at the inquest conducted by Coroner Willard G. Blood at the Goodale Funeral home, 912 Hamilton st., Lockport.

He identified the bodies and in the course of his testimony expressed the opinion that the constant nagging of the mother finally caused the boy to decide to end it all.

Hillock and his wife had been living apart for about two years but were not divorced. He testified at the inquest that while he was still at home the wife was continually nagging the son and on several occasions she took the husband and boy to consult a psychiatrist. He indicated they accompanied her to the doctor to keep peace in the household.

Getting Unparked Quite A Chore On Snowy Days

One of the most irritating aspects of winter driving is pulling in and out of snow-clogged parking places. The Chicago Motor Club offers the following suggestions to motorists to help ease this frustrating wintertime problem:
--When ever possible, back out of a parking space in your own car tracks.
--Do not turn your wheels sharply either in backing out or pulling forward in heavy snow.
--Make sure your transmission is in low gear. Rapid acceleration in a high gear will more than likely result only in spinning wheels and no forward progress.
--For better traction in snow

Wages Factor

In Collecting

Motor Fuel Tax

Attorney General William G. Clark has announced that the appellate court at Ottawa (2nd Dist.) has knocked out the effort of some 63 Illinois municipalities, counties and individuals to obtain motor fuel tax payments from the state without complying with provisions of the Prevailing Wage Act.

In its order the Second District appellate court granted Clark's motion reversing and remanding the injunction issued by Circuit Judge Burton Roeth at Monmouth ordering such payments made while suit attacking validity of the Act is in progress.

"The appellate court's order means," Clark said, "that these municipalities and counties will receive no gasoline tax money from the state until and unless they comply with the Prevailing Wage Law. Whether this law is or is not constitutional awaits future determination by the courts."

This includes all residents of the school district who are interested in the academic conditions which surround their children.

There will be no regular business meeting for that evening, but refreshments will be served by the fourth grade mothers in the lobby.

Due to the large amount of snow and the frigid temperatures prevailing in the area for the last few weeks, the day hike scheduled for the Summit Hill boy scout troop 10, on Sunday, Jan. 27, was called off. Instead of having a hike on that day, the Boy Scouts were rounded into cars and transported into Chicago, where they were divided into patrols, and spent the day going through the Museum of Science and Industry.

The Boy Scouts week end camp-out at Morris, also had to be postponed one week since the Boy Scout Reservation, Pine Lodge, had been taken up by another troop. The camp-out is definitely to take place next week end, Feb. 15-16-17.

The cub scout troop which was organized just this year held their first pack meeting at the Arbury Hills School last Friday, Feb. 1st. At that time all the cub dens met in the large cub pack, at which time the Bobcat Awards were presented to those boys who have earned them through their own efforts.

This pack meeting had been originally scheduled for the previous Friday, Jan. 25 at the old school; but inclement weather prevented the plans from being carried out.

The Arbury Hills Kindergarten Organization will hold their February meeting at the home of Mrs. Donald Munday of 9431 West Pine Street on Tuesday evening, Feb. 19, at 8:00 p.m.

He stayed an extra day at the Estes home before returning to the old homestead at Fort Worth.

The Teens Club held the second meeting of January on Monday, Jan. 28. Mrs. Nancy Funick and Mrs. Virginia Donovan, both of Arbury Hills acted as chaperones for the evening.

Both the nomination of candidates and the election of the succeeding officers will take place at this meeting.

Can Sign For Another Grain Control Program

Farmers who grew corn, grain sorghum, or barley on their farms in 1959 or 1960 may sign up to participate in the 1963 feed grain program, Carl M. Bormer, chairman, agricultural stabilization and conservation county committee, said this week. The sign-up period for the voluntary feed grain program has been set for February 1 thru March 22, 1963.

The chairman listed the following principal features of the 1963 feed grain program: (1) the program is voluntary; (2) it applies to corn, grain sorghum, and barley, for which crops the base acreages are added together into one "feed grain base" for the farm; (3) program participants must take at least 20 percent of the total base out of production and devote such acres to a conservation use; (4) a program participant must not exceed the feed grain base for any other farm in which he has an interest in the feed grain crops; (5) diversion payments will be made to participants for shifting acreage from production to conservation; (6) price-support payments (18 cents a bushel for corn, 14 cents for barley and 16 cents for grain sorghum) will be made to program participants on the normal production of their 1963 feed grain acreage, no matter what use is made of the grains; (7) regular price-support loans and purchase agreements on the three feed grains will be available only to participants, and they will be available for the entire 1963 production of the three feed grains.

Other details of the program are available at the ASCS offices in Orland Park and Arlington Heights.

away 2 years ago Feb. 10th,

The evening star shines over the grave
Of one we loved but could not save
The end was sudden,
the shock severe
To part with one
we love so dear
His busy hands are resting now
His work on earth is done,
His worries are all over now.
If God would grant us just one wish
We'd whisper soft and low
"Please God we want him

This is the first time under the present act that such a total has been reached by an Illinois board.

Instant Glamor? It's All In A Wig

Like instant coffee, "instant glamor" is a growing product on today's market, too. That's the label the beauty industry has put on the rising trend toward fashion wigs, which let milady change the color, style and length of her coiffure just by sending the ersatz hair to the beauty salon to be done in the afternoon. It's a label heartily endorsed by Helen Ramsey Coiffures

Nature Corner

The Foxes Of Illinois

BY DAVID H. THOMPSON
SENIOR NATURALIST, COOK COUNTY FOREST PRESERVES

The red fox and the gray fox are the only common wild relatives of the dog in the Chicago region. Another, the coyote, if present at all in recent years, is very scarce. Both foxes have long pointed faces, large ears, long legs, long bushy tails and weigh only about ten pounds. The red fox is reddish yellow with a white tip on the tail and has black stockings on its feet and legs. The gray fox has a grizzled gray back with rusty yellow on the throat, sides, feet and legs. The tip of its tail is black.

In Illinois the red fox is most at home in farmlands, open country and the borders of woodlands where it has held its own and thrived over the years in spite of hunters, trappers and the disturbances of its habitat by man. The less common gray is a shy forest animal which has increased in wildlife sanctuaries. However, the total fox population of the Cook County forest preserves is probably little different from that of other areas of similar size in Illinois.

FOXES CONSUME a wide variety of foods but the principal items in the diets of both species are rabbits, mice and other rodents. In summer and autumn they eat quantities of berries, wild fruits, nuts and acorns. To this menu they add insects, reptiles, a few wild birds and carrion. Formerly, the belief of sportsmen and farmers that foxes were deadly enemies of game birds and domestic poultry led to the payment of bounties for their destruction. Now that the facts show that they are more beneficial than harmful, most of these bounties have been stopped.

During the 1920's the long thick richly colored fur of the red fox was fashionable for women's scarves, muffs and coats. Hunters and trappers in the northern states received $10 to $20 each for good quality skins. Since then, fox fur went out of style and its price has fallen too low to tempt the professional trapper. In a few downstate Illinois communities sportsmen still run foxes with dogs merely for the pleasure of listening to the music of the hounds.

FOXES MATE in late winter and the 3 to 6 blind helpless pups or kits are born about 53 days later. A pair of red foxes often takes over a woodchuck burrow which they enlarge. The grays commonly den in a hollow tree, a hollow log or under a rock pile. The pups open their eyes in about ten days but remain in the den for a month or more. At this time they mew like kittens.

After that they are fed in front of the den where they play with bones, have mock fights, and chase their tails.

of 907 Singer Ave., Lemont, with another important addition -- "instant glamor" on credit.

Ramsey Coiffures is now offering fashion-conscious women such credit plans as this -- their own individually styled human hair wig complete with carrying case and block from $119.50 up -- with as little as 10 per cent down.

Along the same "budget glamor" line, blended wigs are available with carrying case and block at from $49.50 up.

All this, says Helen Ramsey is a reflection of the fact that fashion wigs, on the upswing for the last few years, are turning up on more heads every day.

Industry sources estimate that as many of a thousand of them are being sold monthly in the Chicago area alone, with annual spending for them running close to $2,000,000.

"It's 'instant glamor,'" says Helen Ramsey. "It is not a fad but a new beauty aid -- and before too long a fine coiffed wig will be as common as accessory as a lipstick."

Typical prices for high quality, imported handmade wigs range up as high as $275 for dark brown, $300 for medium brown and $350 for blonde. Blonde wigs are more expensive because the fine quality light hair that goes into them is more scarce.

With a view toward expanding the market and softening the price barrier, Wig houses have devised financing plans and rental arrangements for the budget conscious, hence the "10 per cent down" credit plan at Helen Ramsey Coiffures.

The pay-as-you-wear plan makes it possible for any woman to take advantage of the wig as a beauty aid, Helen Ramsey feels.
